BOUNDARIES, STATE

Act of Congress, February 3, 1809. U.S. Statutes at Large
v. 2, p. 514

An act dividing the Indiana territory into two separate governments. Ap. Feb. 3, 1809.

Sect. 1. "All that part of the Indiana territory which lies west of the Wabash river and Post Vincennes, due north to the territorial line between the United States and Canada."

Act of Congress, April 18, 1818. U.S. Statutes at Large
v. 3, p. 428

An act to enable the people of the Illinois Territory to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original states. Ap. Apr. 18, 1818.

Sect. 2. "...That the said state shall consist of all the territory included within the following boundaries, to wit: Beginning at the mouth of the Wabash River; thence, up the same, and with the line of Indiana, to the northwest corner of said state; thence, east with the line of the same state, to the middle of said Lake Michigan; thence, north along the middle of said lake, to north latitude forty-two degrees thirty minutes; thence, west to the middle of the Mississippi River; and thence down along the middle of that river, to its confluence with the Ohio River; and thence, up the latter river, along its northwestern shore, to the place of beginning...The said state shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the state of Indiana on the Wabash River, so far as said river shall form a common boundary to both, and also concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi with any state or states to be formed west thereof, so far as said river shall form a common boundary to both."

Accepted by Constitution of 1818 [Preamble]

1821. An act providing for the running and marking the Line dividing the State of Illinois and Indiana.

Ap. Feb. 6, 1821. L. 1821, p. 97.

Boundaries, State (con't)

1823. An act establishing the line between the States of Illinois and Indiana. Ap. Feb. 17, 1823.
L. 1823, p. 159; R.L. 1829, p. 9 Sect. 1, p. 160.
 "That the following be, and the same is hereby established as the permanent line between the states of Illinois and Indiana, viz. commencing on the north, or north west bank of the Wabash River, where a due north line from Vincennes last crosses the said river, forty-six miles from Vincennes, at a mulberry post, forty links from the waters edge, from which a sycamore tree, thirty-eight inches in diameter, bears north, seventy-one degrees west, twenty links, and a sycamore thirty inches in diameter, bears north eighty-four degrees east, thirty-nine links; thence north, commencing with a variation of six degrees and fifty minutes, charging the same frequently, as designated by the field notes, one hundred and fifty-nine miles and forty-six chains, to Lake Michigan." Boundary stone to be placed where the line last leaves the river Wabash.
1824. An act for the Relief of Guy W. Smith. Ap. Dec. 7, 1824.
L. 1825, p. 6
1829. An act to ascertain and survey the northern boundary line of this state. R.L. 1829, p. 11. Amended L. 1831, p. 101.
 1829 Act provides for a joint survey by an Illinois Commissioner appointed by governor and a U. S. commissioner, the state to pay its commissioner and half of the expenses.
- 1831 provides for Illinois survey with or without a U. S. Commissioner, "Said line shall be ascertained by celestial observations, and not by the Mariner's compass." Stone markers to be set up every five miles.
- Note: The above acts omitted from R.S. 1833 and later revisions, though R.S. 1833, p. 434 specially states that no acts relating to the State boundary are repealed by the general act repealing acts earlier than 1833.

Illinois City

(Summary of history taken from Lavalley v. Strobels, 1878, 89 Ill 370)

1817. "There was a village on a portion of the Cahokia commons, on the 18th day of September, 1817, and residing therein about fifty families. Some fifty-two of the male residents of the place, on that date, executed a power of attorney to Nicholas Jarrott, Jesse B. Thomas, John Hay, John Hays, and Francis Turcotte, to lay out a town on a part of the common east of the village of Cahokia, and to make a plat of the same; and to petition Congress to grant the "fee simple right" to so much of the commons as would embrace the town thus laid out; and to distribute among them their several shares as these commissioners might think fit and proper. And also to sell such portions, and convey the same in fee, as might be necessary to defray the expenses; and in the absence or death of one or two of the attorneys, the others empowered to execute and carry out the power thus conferred."

This power of attorney was recorded Sept. 27, 1817.
89 Ill. pp. 376-377

1818. Constitution. Art. 8, Sect. 8

The commons of Cahokia and Prairie du Pont exempted from provision that the "commons shall not be leased, sold or divided under any pretext whatever."

"The General Assembly shall have power to grant the same privileges to the inhabitants of the villages of Cahokia and Prairie du Pont as are hereby granted to the inhabitants of other towns, hamlets and villages."

Repealed Priv.L. 1827, p. 22

1819-25. Illinois City platted. 89 Ill. p. 376ff

"The persons named in the power of attorney proceeded to lay off and plat the town, and named it 'Illinois City'. They laid off and designated on the plat a public square, an English and a Catholic and an old English church, and a public school on the grounds they were to occupy. The plat was acknowledged by three of the attorneys before a justice of the peace of the county, on the 2d day of July 1825, and was recorded on the 27th day of that month. On this plat was marked the name of each person to whom the lot or lots were awarded..."

"...after the survey and plat were made, and before the plat was acknowledged, the person signing the power of attorney, in the month of January, 1819, presented a petition to Congress, reciting that they had caused to be laid off into town lots, a portion of Cahokia common, and stated the manner in which it was done," and asking Congress to confirm their acts.

Site:

To be chosen by Board of Administration: L. 1911, p. 128
Historical Sketch. Illinois Blue Book, 1927/28 p. 3941868. Cook County located a special group of buildings to care for its insane and indigent citizens, located eleven miles northwest of City of Chicago, in the township of Jefferson. For a number of years this group of county buildings was known to the general public and newspaper world as the JEFFERSON INSTITUTION. By re-organization of township, now in township of Norwood Park.

CHICAGO STATE HOSPITAL (con't)

1868. (con't)

"The name Dunning comes from the fact that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad had to secure the right-of-way across the Dunning farm (named after its owner) before it could extend its tracts northward to the hospital grounds. The railroad company also agreed to locate its station on the Dunning farm, so Dunning, Illinois, came into existence. The depot and the old Dunning farm are both located across the street from the hospital grounds."

1869. First building, then called the administration building erected. Additional wings built in 1872 and 1878, and in 1898 a fourth story added.

1870. Infirmary for care of Cook County's poor

1885. Ward and bath houses building

1890, 1897, 1903, 1904. 12 cottage wards erected

1898. Hospital building for acutely ill patients

1903. Building for care of sane tubercular patients only.

"These three separate groups-the insane, the indigent, and the tubercular-remained under county care until the year 1909, when the General Assembly passed a law entitled, 'An act to revise the laws relating to charities, etc.' Section 20 of this act provides for the removal of the insane and feeble-minded in almshouses in counties with a population of over one hundred and fifty thousand.

This 1911 act creating this State hospital, was to provide for the insane and feeble-minded in the Cook County Hospital for the Insane at Dunning, Illinois.

July 1, 1912, "the County of Cook transferred to the State of Illinois, all lands, buildings and equipment of the Cook County Institution at Dunning, Illinois, the indigent and tubercular being removed by the county to Oak Forest."
